CHAMBER COMMERCE HOLDS ROUSING MEETING LAST SATURDAY EVENING

R. H. K. Smith Engaged as Secretary Manager --- Two Important Projects Taken Up

The chamber of commerce held a rousing meeting last Saturday evening. All the business men in town were present. After considerable discussion it was agreed to engage a secretary-manager for the chamber at a reasonable salary. R. H. K. Smith, for many years connected with the Slade Lumber Company of San Francisco, was selected. He has resided in Redwood City for several years. Mr. Smith has had considerable experience in publicity work. The members of the chamber believe they have secured a valuable asset in getting the services of Mr. Smith. This is certainly a step in the right direction, for an experienced publicity man can do a great deal for this section. Mr. Smith will devote his entire time to the chamber work.

A delegation from a big concern desiring to locate here was present and offered a proposition which the chamber is taking under consideration. A committee was appointed to make a thorough investigation of the matter. Should the concern locate here it will be a big thing for Redwood City. Over 500 men will be on the pay roll of the concern. It has already secured an option on a tract of land in Redwood City upon which the factory will be erected.

The aviation field project was taken up by the chamber and discussed. The government wants the local field but desires the city to buy the land, the government agreeing to spend the sum of $260,000 annually here. The government needs a landing place for its mail service, as the fogs in San Francisco at times prevent the aeroplanes from landing in the aviation field there. It certainly would be a good investment for Redwood City to purchase the Redwood City aviation field property and present it to the government and reap these big returns. How the money could be raised is the problem with which the city will have to wrestle. The chamber has the matter under consideration. It may find some way to solve the vexatious question.

These two projects are well worth considering, as they would bring a big boom to this community. Let us hope the chamber will thoroughly consider the mand find some means of securing them.

President Frank Towne announced that he will arrange for holding a get together meeting and banquet in the near future, when business men and others may meet the new secretary and talk over matters of interest to the development of this city. The date of this meeting will be announced shortly. It is to be hoped that all those interested in the development of the community will be present.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Sequoia Union High School football team will play the San Jose high school eleven here on Wednesday next. This will be a fine contest, as the San Jose boys are considered the very best players in the state.

Tuesday, October 21, the team is to play Mountain View on the Redwood gridiron. The local boys are anxious to wipe out their defeat of last year.

On Friday, October 28, there is to be a big football rally, parade and bonfire. A number of unique stunts are to be pulled off.

On October 29 the seniors will have a carnival at the new high school campus. Everybody is welcome and a good time is assured all. There will be a small admission charged.

Miss Ethel O'Keefe of Stanford University is teaching a class in Spanish at Sequoia. Miss O'Keefe is a graduate of Sequoia, where she made an excellent record. She is a graduate student at Stanford and is doing splendid work there.

BIAGINI FREED

The case of the people against N. Biagini, charged with the killing of little Gladys Wyant some time ago at San Mateo, was dismissed in the superior court yesterday on motion of the district attorney. The little girl was run over by Biagini's automobile. There was very little evidence against the accused, so the district attorney was compelled to make the motion.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION AT SAN MATEO

An Armistice Day celebration will be held under the auspices of the American Legion Post No. 82 of San Mateo, Burlingame and Hillsborough.

The committee on arrangements has a program for a monster county celebration, including parade, memorial exercises, field events, football games, tug of war contest between the various posts and general carnival spirit through the entire day, ending with the grand ball to be held in the San Mateo high school gymnasium.

A trophy prize cup will be given for the best float in the parade. All civic and fraternal organizations have been requested to participate. School children are to be awarded prizes for the best representation of movie characters, national characters, cartoon characters and a special committee has been selected to instruct the children on the makeups of Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Katzenjammer Kids, General Pershing, Napoleon, Joan of Arc and other world renowned characters.

As this is a county celebration and as all civic bodies will be represented by floats in the parade it should be up to our community to boost the American Legion.

This day has an appeal to all red-blooded Americans. It is the anniversary of the end of the world war, a day sacred to all and in remembrance to those who gave their lives to the cause we should pay homage to the work they accomplished and to the American Legion, that organization formed for the purpose of carrying on that ideal for which the supreme sacrifice was made.

ADMINISTRATION ASKED

L. T. Freitas has applied in the superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of Mary Baravena, who died on June 11, 1920, in Washington. The estate consists of a parcel of land in the Husing subdivision, San Mateo, valued at $500.

DR. MARTIN O'BRIEN FUNERAL THIS MORNING

Dr. Martin S. O'Brien, after an illness of some five years, passed away at his home at 503 Phelps street on Thursday morning. The deceased came here with his wife six months ago for the benefit of his health, hoping the even climate of Redwood City would restore his former vigor and strength. For a while he improved, but lately began to decline and finally succumbed to his ailment. He was surrounded by his immeliate relatives and friends when the end came and passed away peacefully.

Dr. O'Brien sucered intense pain during his iliness, but he never murmured or complained, bearing his sufferings with due Christian fortitude, knowing that the end would bring him peace and freedom from all the earthly pains.

Dr. O'Brien was a native of St. Louis, Mo., aged 65 years. For 45 years he was a general practitioner in the city of his birth, gaining much prominence in his profession. As a young man he graduated from the St. Louis Medical College, now the Washington University. After leaving college he began the practice of medicine in his native city with success. Five years ago he was taken ill and in order to regain his health he traveled all over the United States, finally settling down in Redwood City. Dr. O'Brien was a man who was universally liked and loved by all who knew him.

The funeral will take place this morning from his late residence at 8:30 o'clock, thence to Mount Carmel Church, where a requiem mass will be celebrated for the repose of his soul. Interment is to be in Holy Cross cemetery, Colma.

HONORED MEMBER OF LOCAL BAR ATTACKED IN SAN FRANCISCO CALL

Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick Criticized by S. F. Attorney in Conduct of Stanley Estate Affairs

The San Francisco Call of Thursday evening contains an article that reflects upon the honor and integrity of Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick, an honored member of the bar for nearly 40 years and a gentleman who is known and respected throughout the state. Those who know the judge ridicule the absurd story and are surprised that such a reputable journal as the Call should print such trash without first looking into the merits of the case. Mr. Fitzpatrick's reputation is too well established to be tarnished by any statement of that character.

Mr. Fitzpatrick is accused by the article, inspired by one Samuel T. Bush, a San Francisco attorney, of defrauding Benjamin B. Stanley out of his estate of $90,000.

Bush has taken the matter up with the San Mateo County Bar Association, but that organization, knowing how ridiculous the charges are, has returned the papers to him without taking any action.

Ignored by Bar Association

The bar association of this state will be remiss in its duty if it does not at once begin disbarment proceedings against Bush for such a flimsy accusation against a brother attorney.

History of the Case

Away back in the early 70s B. A. Barney, a young mining man, went to the gold fields of Arizona, where after years of hard struggle he amassed a large fortune. Wishing to spend the remaining days of his life in peaceful repose in some quiet and sequestered spot away from the city's madding crowd, he purchased the Macdonough estate at Atherton, then one of the show places of the county. Before leaving Arizona he lost an only son. Accompanying him to his Atherton home were his devoted wife and a daughter, who afterward became the wife of Dr. Stanley, a San Francisco dentist. They had one son, Benjamin B. Stanley. They all lived together in happiness at the Barney home.

Death came to break up the family circle. The doctor passed away and shortly afterward the old miner went to his heavenly home. Mrs. Stanley was the sole comfort of her aged mother. The doctor left no estate. Mrs. Stanley became the agent of her mother, transacting all her business. Mrs. Barney was old, she had faith in her daughter. She deeded property to her daughter for convenience so that she would not be botherd with business affairs. Mrs. Stanley died suddenly without deeding back the property to her mother.

Proceedings All Regular

When Mr. Barney died his estate was probated in the superior court of this county. He left all his estate to his wife.

When Mrs. Stanley's estate was probated proceedings were brought to have the property deeded to Mrs. Stanley by her mother returned to Mrs. Barney, and this was done in a proper way in the superior court under the eye of Judge Buck, whose honesty and integrity as a judge are well known throughout the state. Bush takes exception to this transfer, which was perfectly legal, right and just.

After the demise of his mother, Benjamin Stanley, her son, began dissipating and squandering the small estate of his mother. In order to protect him his grandmother had to call a halt before he would become penniless.

Stanley, with the advice and consent of his attorney, John T. Williams, now assistant United States attorney at San Francisco, transferred the remaining portion of his property to his grandmother. Stanley was in his sober senses and made the transfer willingly and by the advice of his attorney. Mrs. Barney at that time said she would treat Stanley as one of her own family and would always provide for him, conditioned that he would abandon his wild ways and become a man. Stanley for a while followed the straight and narrow path, but finally fell from the "water wagon" and again began dissipating. Mrs. Barney then stopped his allowance and left him to drift as best he might.

Stanley Makes Trouble

Stanley at once began making trouble for his grandmother. He sought several reputable attorneys in San Francisco and in this county to bring suit to have the property he transferred to his grandmother redeeded to him, claiming fraud on the part of his grandmother and her attorney, Judge E. F. Fitzpatrick. All the attorneys refused his case after it had been peddled all over San Francisco. Finally one Samuel T. Bush accepted the job. He at once had his client declared incompetent. Then he brought suit against Mr. Fitzpatrick in San Francisco, asking for damages in the sum of $100,000. Previously Mrs. Barney had transferred the property in question to her attorney to save all the annoyances of transacting business, as she was over 90 years old and did not want to be troubled in her declining years by business affairs. The suit commenced by Bush was dismissed on the showing made by Judge Fitzpatrick and his attorney, Archer Kincaid.

Fitzpatrick Ready for Trial

Stanley was again restored to competency and another suit brought by himself in San Francisoc to secure damages in the sum of $100,000. Some time ago the suit was transferred to this county for trial. Bush and Stanley have constantly sought both Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Barney for a settlement, but did nothing toward pushing the case. Mr. Kincaid has filed his demurrer and the other side has failed to answer, always looking for a settlement and apparently not willing to try the case on its merits. Judge Buck has called in Judge Knight of Santa Cruz to try the case. Mr. Fitzpatrick is willing and anxious to go on with the suit and have the vexatious matter tried on its true merits.

The Call in its article reflects also on the integrity of Judge Buck, who has been absolutely fair and just in the whole matter.

Judge Fitzpatrick has labored hard and diligently to save the property at Atherton for the Barney heirs. It is heavily mortgaged and only through his wisdom and foresight has he been able to save it from foreclosure. His only reward for this is the abuse and contumely of one who will eventually get the property.

REGULAR MEETING BOARD SUPERVISORS

W. J. Locke, attorney for the Skyline boulevard commission, presented a resolution calling on the district attorney of San Mateo county to begin proceedings to condemn a strip of land through the Christensen and Doane ranches west of Colma in the first township for a right of way for the Skyline boulevard. Parrott estate, presented a claim of $1973.15 alleged to be due the estate for overpaid taxes on assessments against the Parrott property during 1918, 1919 and 1920. The claim was ordered referred to the county tax collector for a report at the next meeting.

On motion of Mrs. Brown, seconded by Francis, it was ordered that $1450 be transferred from the general fund to the San Gregorio oiling fund.

The regular monthly claims having been approved by the finance committee, were allowed on motion of Hickey, seconded by Francis.

LEVINSKY ATTORNEY IN NOCE DAMAGE CASE

George Levinsky, the blind San Francisco attorney, who met with an automobile accident last Sunday while on his way to his summer home near San Rafael, was well known in Redwood City. He often visited the county esat in connection with the Noce damage suit. He with his associates secured a judgment of $43,000 against the United Railroads for the death of Mr. Noce. The widow of the dead man brought the action. The judgment was reversed by the supreme court and the case was about to be tried again in the superior court of this county. Noce was alleged to have been killed by the carelessness of employes of the railroad company.

DIVORCE ASKED BY MRS. ESTHER PAYNE

Esther Payne has commenced an action in the superior court against her husband, Noah Payne, for an interlocutory decree of divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty. The two were married in San Francisco on January 31, 1920, and separated on October 8, 1921. They have one child, Norine, aged ten months. Mrs. Payne asks for attorney fees in the sum of $100, costs $15 and $30 a month for the support of herself and the minor child.

BOARD OF HEALTH HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Frederick Kempff, son of the late Admiral Kempff, left last Friday for Bay City, Texas, where he will take charge of his 3000-acre ranch. Mr. Kempff stopped at the Sequoia hotel for some weeks before he left. He owns a portion of the Selby tract, having inherited from the Selby estate. His mother was a Miss Selby before her marriage to Admiral Kempff.

John Kyne of Halfmoon Bay, father of Peter B. Kyne, the noted short story writer, was a constant attendant at the Hightower trial. He heard the evidence from beginning to end. While attending the celebrated case he spent his evenings with his daughter, who is a teacher at Lomita Park.

District Attorney Churchill of Lake county, who recently prosecuted the Rev. Mr. Spencer, the "little minister," for the murder of his wife, and who secured a conviction of murder in the first degree, attended the Hightower trial on Thursday. He is a very young man and the manner in which he handled the Spencer case showed his ability. He will be heard from again.

The ladies of Redwood City and vicinity will be interested in the announcement appearing in this paper of a new women's ready to wear shop located with the Bon Ton millinery store at 42 Broadway. This department will be under the personal supervision of I. R. Kipper, who is thoroughly familiar with all lines of women's apparel and the policy of the store will be "high grade garments at popular prices" and "one of a kind styles." All should come and hear this able talk on the important question of the hour. The church ought to be filled to capacity. No admission will be charged. It is a rare treat to listen to this able man.

The Methodist Episcopal church of this city has completed the purchase of a large lot on the corner of Broadway and Brewster street, on which a substantial church building will be erected early next year.

Philip Fox, the mining engineer, has secured a lease on a big mining property in Siskiyou county which he will begin to operate November 1. Mr. Fox will depart for the north about the end of the month. He may come back to Redwood City a millionaire.

The bazaar and festival for the benefit of Mount Carmel church and convent closed last Saturday night after a successful run of three evenings. It is believed the net proceeds will be over $2000.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Putnam, who have been guests at Hotel Sequoia for the past month, departed yesterday for their future home in Fresno. Mrs. Putnam, who is better known as Doris Shirley, was an important witness in the Hightower case.

HIGHTOWER FOUND GUILTY WITH RECOMMENDATION OF LIFE SENTENCE

Jury Out Only Two Hours---Convicted Man to Appear in Court This Morning for Sentence

William A. Hightower, the slayer of the martyr priest, Patrick Heslin, at Colma on the evening of August 2, will pass the remainder of his life behind prison bars, there in his San Quentin home to reflect upon the horror of his crime, the most heinous and revolting that has ever been committed in the annals of the state or anywhere else. The fact that the evidence was purely circumstantial saved him from the hangman's noose. The jury did not feel justified with this eveidence in hanging the murderer, though he richly deserved the extreme penalty for the foul murder of the aged priest. Hightower should have atoned for the crime by his life.

Prisoner Remorseful

Yesterday morning he was stricken with remorse in his cell in the county jail and wept bitterly. He wept for the loss of the affections of Doris Shirley, with whom he was deeply infatuated. He spoke of her all day yesterday, bemoaning her loss.

On Tuesday afternoon Attorney W. F. Herron delivered the opening address to the jury. It was a remarkable speech. It was the best oratorical effort of all the attorneys. Herron made some strong points and he drove them home in a striking oratorical manner.

He was followed Thursday morning by Senator Emmons of Fresno. Emmons was a disappointment as far as oratory was concerned, although his speech was logical and sincere. He analyzed the evidence in a clever way and made a strong impression on the jury. In opening his address he paid a neat tribute to the fairness of the court and the district attorney. Emmons closed his address with a strong appeal for his client. At the close of his speech he left at once for his home in Fresno.

Able Porsecution

Emmons was followed by District Attorney Swart. The district attorney did not affect oratory but made a strong, convincing argument, holding that the murder was committed by Hightower and asking for his conviction. Swart was keen in his analysis of the evidence, going into every detail and weaving a strong case against the accused. His argument was the best ever delivered by him in the superior court room.

Swart's closing statement, ninety minutes in length, was a clear and forceful summary of the whole case under nearly twenty headings, each of which he termed a link in the chain.

Swart declared that the defense arguments by Herron and Emmons had failed to weaken any one of the links and that Hightower's own elaborate story had been obviously a tissue of falsehood, full of inconsistencies.

"Suppose he had found the body of Father Heslin innocently—would he have had the least difficulty in telling how he had come upon the evidence of a grave?" asked Swart. "Would he have been obliged to lie if that discovery had been entirely honest and above board? Suppose if one of you jurors had found Father Heslin's body—would you have had any such difficulty in explaining the matter as this defendant has had?

"This is the strongest circumstantial case on record in California."

Verdict Reached Quickly

Judge Buck's charge to the jury was brief. It was just and fair and an able presentation of the law in the case.

When the jury filed out of the court room at 2:07 in the afternoon all eyes of the big throng were on it. No one left the court room. All were intent on learning the conclusions of the jury.

The jury agreed upon a compromise verdict, fixing Hightower's sentence at life imprisonment. The verdict was reached after nearly two hours of debate and on the second ballot. The first ballot on the simple question of Hightower's guilt or innocence had resulted in a disagreement of 7 votes to 5.

This exactly corresponds with the division of the jury along sex lines, 7 men and 5 women. As the ballot was secret and written, it could not be determined whether the actual division was along the same line or not.

The jury retired at 2:07 and filed into the court room at 3:53. All during this time Hightower sat on the edge of the attorneys' table chatting vivaciously with police officers, lawyers and newspaper men.

During the tense half minute between the first appearance of jurors and the reading of the verdict by the foreman, C. M. Doxsee, Hightower maintained his stoical indifference. After the judge left the bench Hightower congratulated the attorneys and those near him. He appeared to be elated at the verdict.

Much credit is due District Attorney Swart for his masterful handling of the famous case. He worked night and day, leaving no detail unfinished. His presentation of the evidence was able and complete. The people of San Mateo county may feel proud of their district attorney, for he certainly acquitted himself with honor in the noted case. He was ably assisted by his aide, J. H. Machado.

Judge Buck presided with dignity and fairness and won fresh honors for the way he maintained order in his court room. A prominent detective from the city remarked that it was refreshing to come to a court where there was a real judge.

San Francisco Officers Helped

Captain Mathieson, Chief of Police O'Brien, Sergeant McQuaide, the San Francisco officers, and Constable Landini and Sheriff Sheehan and the local officers also deserve credit for their able assistance at all times.

The large crowds that visited the court room daily noted the courtesy and efficiency of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Nash, who was promptly on hand at the opening of court and doing her work in an admirable manner. All those from different parts of the state who attended the trial went away with good impressions of Redwood City and her county officials.

Theory of Prosecution

It is the theory of the prosecution that Hightower, who was a consort of Doris Shirley, secured a Ford on the night of August 2 and went out to Colma, called at the house of Father Heslin at 9 o'clock, saying that there was a man dying at Salada Beach. He took the aged priest to that place, crossed the sand dunes to the edge of a cliff and there struck him with some blunt instrument, the priest toppling over to the niche below. There he was brutally shot by the monster three times. At the bottom of the niche was the tent found afterward in Hightower's room. It is believed that Hightowr some time previously had dug a grave near the tent and that night interred the priest. When the body was found some days afterward the sacred stole was found about the neck of Father Heslin and in his pocket was the blessed sacrament. It is also believed that when Hightower returned to the city about midnight he deposited the ransom letter received next morning by Archbishop Hanna asking for $6500.

In unraveling the case the detectives of San Francisco have shown skill and ability.

Hightower will appear at 10 this morning in the superior court for sentence. A motion will be made at that time by his attorneys for a new trial. Hightower will not be taken to San Quentin until this motion is disposed of.

A DUMBARTON ROADWAY

A bridge at Dumbarton for the convenience of highway traffic is a necessity. It should be constructed at as early a date as possible. Along with it consideration must be given to the construction of a highway adequate to the traffic that will be imposed. An adequate roadway is of as much importance as the bridge itself.

Naturally a very large proportion of the traffic will go right through the peninsula towns. Transportation of farm produce to the canneries or other markets on this side of the bay will constitute a large element of the business, while it is more than probable that passenger traffic will be quite a feature. From San Francisco there will be a great volume of business, both freight and passenger. Some of it will of necessity pay tribute to peninsula towns in the way of patronage of local supply houses. The bridge will mean more business and better transportation facilities.

As for the roadway to connect with the bridge, a policy providing for construction and maintenance should be settled in advance. Certain it is, the maintenance of such a highway will be an expensive proposition. The roadway in the first instance must be constructed more substantially than the streets in the various towns of the peninsula. Will the cities of Redwood, San Mateo and Burlingame, as well as others affected, be willing to stand this expense? Will the county government be willing to pay for construction and maintenance of a highway suitable for the traffic? Or will the state highway commisison be called upon to put in and keep up the road?

It would seem that the last named plan is the fairest. The bridge and the road will be of more benefit to other communities than those on the peninsula. Those other communities should share in the expense. The only fair way to secure co-operation from them is through the state road system. San Mateo county pays is share into the state road fund, as do the other counties. If the commission can be induced to take over the construction and operation of the road this county will be standing its share of the expense along with all others in the state, so the idea is eminently fair and reasonable. The traffic will be of great benefit to the other localities, perhaps greater than to San Mateo county, so it is just and right the other communities should join in the expense.

At any rate this is a subject that should receive immediate attention from those specially interested in the bridge project. The whole matter might as well be settled in advance. It would be a calamity to secure the bridge, then have a light roadway put in that would be ruined in a few months and remain in that deplorable condition because the people of the cities traversed could not afford to maintain such an expensive highway. The awful experiences of automobilists through Mayfield and the humiliating and exasperating reflections on the town should not be repeated anywhere in California. That warning should be sufficient.

SUPPORT MERCHANT MARINE

Making a strong appeal for popular support of the American merchant marine, Chairman Lasker of the United States shipping board delivered an address before the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in New York City recently, which bristles with facts and is replete with wisdom. The burden of Chairman Lasker's appeal is to be found in his opening sentence: "Until there is an awakened consciousness on the part of all citizens of America that economic stability is dependent on the disposal of our surplus wares and products in the world markets there can never be an American merchant marine." That is axiomatic. He closes his address by saying: "The future of the American merchant marine is in the recognition by the farmer of Kansas, the miner of Arizona, the industrial worker of Indiana that his continuous employment is in measure dependent on the carrying of his surplus production to foreign markets, and that can only be insured by the existence of American bottoms." Unquestionably.

Between the opening and closing paragraphs of his speech the chairman traces the development and decline of our merchant marine beginning with the 13 states, a narrow strip along the Atlantic, when we were a seafaring nation, on up to 1849, when "the lure of salt water gave place to the call of the unclaimed riches that awaited the overland emigrant," and then to the present when "America, which during the period of the conquering of its empire, was a self-consuming and self-sufficient nation by and large, now finds itself once more, if employment is to be general, with permanent surpluses which can only find outlet on the ocean."

"Generally speaking," says Mr. Lasker, "the last 10 per cent of production makes the market, and it is this last 10 per cent we must insure disposal of to customers in foreign lands. Except with a merchant marine under our own control there can be no assurance of these essential markets." He points to the handicaps under which we labored when in 1915 the British ships were commandeered for war activities. He points to the reliance of the navy on the merchant marine as an auxiliary in war time, saying, "And who can promise that in the next war we can call on allies for the bottoms needed to transport our army and feed and supply it and our navy?" He reviews the financial mess which the shipping board inherited from the previous administration, under which the "accounting system that started with the operation of ships had simply collapsed.' When Lasker took hold the emergency fleet corporation employed 8,300 people and the pay roll was $16,000,000. Today it has been cut to 6,000 employees with a $12,000,000 pay roll and more improvements in sight. He points out the service of the shipping board in carrying the $20,000,000,000 worth of foreign trade since the armistice. The building program is practically finished. Money losses have been written off to the cost of war, but the ships remain, "potentially one of the greatest assets America has to insure its economic future."

Mr. Lasker then outlines the vast problems which we have to meet to insure permanence to our merchant marine, handicapped as it is by the higher construction and operating costs, and finds that the Jones act, which he calls "a magna charta for America on the seas," is the measure best calculated to save our fleet; an act which President Harding helped to frame, and which, during his campaign, he indorsed. The Jones act is the force draft of the American merchant marine. When it is in effective operation a great impetus will be given to our carrying trade.

Lasker's speech should be read and studied by all who have some lingering doubts as to the importance of an American shipping policy which is stalwart and courageous. It will clear away doubt and explain many phases not clear to the lay mind.

POMP—NO PUMPKINS

The New York World, Democratic press leader, tells of an agricultural fair in New York state at which there were all kinds of people except farmers. In fact, says the World, the fair has changed to an automobile exhibit, a baby show, society affair and political convention. This surely indicates a deplorable condition among farmers, but it is what might be expected when agricultural producers of almost every class have been compelled to sell their products at less than cost of production, in some instances not only delivering their products to commission men but later giving the commission men good money in addition to their products. And yet the World is angry at the Republican administration for trying to extricate the farmers from the depression into which they were thrown by the policies of the Democratic administration.

VET BUREAU AUGMENTED

President Harding has signed an executive order transferring part of the Great Lakes training station to the veterans' bureau. The action was taken on the recommendation of Director Forbes of the bureau and is in line with the policy of turning over for the use of the veterans such surplus buildings and other facilities of the war and navy departments as can be utilized.

The proceedings and records also show that at the bond election there were cast by qualified registered voters of said district 910 votes; that 889 of said votes were in favor of said bonds, and only 18 votes against the bonds, practically fifty to one in favor of the issuance of the bonds; that the assessed value of the property situate within the high school district as shown by the last assessment roll is $10,817,194; and that the present outstanding bonded indebtedness of the district is only $14,000

All proceedings taken and action had in and before the Board of Trustees and the Board of Supervisors in the foregoing matter were under the direction of Ross & Ross, attorneys at law, Redwood City, and the law firm of Goodfellow, Eells, Moore & Orrick, of San Francisco, has rendered the District a favorable opinion as to the legality of this bond issue, and a copy of said opinion will be delivered to the successful bidder or bidders for said bonds without charge

By Order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo.

ELIZABETH M. NASH,
County Clerk and ex-officio Clerk of said Board.

Have you ever noticed how a Chinaman buys shoes?

He looks the shoe over carefully, from heel to toe, inside and outside; tries it on, looks for comfort; appraises the shoe in his own mind, AND THEN SAYS, "HOW MUCH?"

If the price is right, he buys the shoe—but he determines the COST of that shoe to him in terms of wear and service.

The price means nothing unless VALUE is behind it, and that is the principle of our buying—we buy value, not prices—we sell you service, style and comfort, NOT A PRICE TAG.

They are both expert mechanics and are genial gentlemen who have the best wishes of the people of Menlo Park in any business they may engage in. The new owners are expert garage men.

The Native Daughters are planning a masquerade ball for October 22 in Native Sons' Hall. It is certain to be a big affair.

The beautiful Coryell place at Atherton is soon to be subdivided and sold in acre lots. The property is finely wooded and just the spot for a home site. There are no choicer subdivision properties in San Mateo county.

The new owner of the old Felton home is cutting down a great number of the beautiful oaks on the property. He is clearing the land preparatory to planting strawberries. It is a pity that the giant trees should become victims to the woodman's ax. These oaks were the pride of Senator Felton in his lifetime.

COLLEGE OF THE SACRED HEART IS NOW IN SESSION

The long established and very successful Academy of the Sacred Heart, presided over by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, has ceased its existence and the newly incorporated College of the Sacred Heart has taken its place.

Under the presidency of Mother M. Guerin it was found that the efficiency of the school would be much advanced were it to enter the lists of institutions empowered to grant degrees recognized by the scholastic world. Students from Menlo Park by their excellent work have, both in the University of California and in Stanford, given testimony to the high grade of instruction received and the methods of study in the academy.

Therefore, when the project of incorporating as a college was taken up the authorities of both universities gave their whole-hearted co-operation. Likewise the state superintendent of instruction entered into the plan with enthusiasm.

In addition to the lecture and laboratory work prescribed for earning degrees by modern university standards, there will be established for advanced students the seminars in the various major studies. In these methods and problems will be studied so as to develop the proper instinct of research, the professor guiding the stident along the way of original investigation.

The new college in consequence begins its career under auspices which promise very highly for its future accomplishment. And no doubt the excellent record made by its students in the period of the academy will be more than maintained in the broader field of collegiate recognition.

The advisory committee in charge of the college department, under whose tutelage the college opens its fall course next Monday is as follows:

Dean—Dr. Aurelio M. Espinosa, professor of Romanic languages at Stanford University; Very Rev. Dr. Henry Ayrinhac, S. S., president of St. Patrick's Seminary, Menlo Park; Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, professor of American history, University of California; Right Rev. Msgr. Joseph M. Gleason, past president Pacific Coast branch, American Historical Association, Palo Alto; Rev. George Lacombe, A. M., Stanford University; Dr. Willam M. Proctor, asosciate professor of education, Stanford University.

All of the above mentioned teachers will conduct courses in their special lines during the scholastic year, following the quarter division of the year as maintained at Stanford and demanding the requisite units of work as decreed by the senates of the two universities mentioned before the granting of degrees.

Professor Anderson of Stanford and Father Redon of St. Patrick's Seminary will, with one or two instructors not yet named, be the remaining members of the faculty from outside the community, while the following veteran instructors from the old academy force will take up college instruction: Mesdames Thompson, Kelly, Rode and Moulton.
